PREFACE

After the publication of Mirate-Mustufabad in Urdu, there has been a continuous demand for its Gujarati and English version from the general public. I have been able to secure a few additional blocks which together with the blocks of Mirate-Mustufabad, are made use of in the present publication.

The album and the brief history help to give a graphic account of the illustrious Babi Nawab Sahebs of Junagadh and of the capital town of Junagadh.

CHAPTER I.

HISTORY OF THE BABI FAMILY.

There was a gentleman named Abdur Rashid, who was in the service of the PROPHET HAZRAT MOHOMED SAHEB (be peace upon him.). As he had more than once done great deeds, the Prophet blessed him, saying that his descendants would render considerable help to the religion of Islam. This prophecy was subsequently proved true. ABDUR RASHID had three sons, one of whom was named ISMAIL. One of the sons of the latter was called BABI, who was the founder of the BABI DYNASTY. This dynasty was named after him. One OSMAN KHAN, ninth in descent from Babi came to INDIA from AFGHANISTAN, with HUMAYUN, Emperor of India. Osmankhan's son's name was BAHADURKHAN. He held a high office at the Emperor's court. As a reward for his faithful services he received two villages in GUJARAT, as Jagir, from Emperor SHAH JAHAN. One of the sons of Bahadurkhan named SHER KHAN was highly applauded by Emperor AURANGZEB for good services done in Gujarat.

When in 1672 A. D. Kutbuddin Foujdar (Governor) of Sorath led an invasion against Jamnagar, SHERKHAN was appointed to help him. Sherkhan bravely conquered JAMNAGAR. For this service he obtained the offices of DIVAN of GUJARAT and FOUJDAR of BARODA and in addition the town of PIRAN PATAN as a Jagir. He died at SIDHPUR but his remains were carried to AHMEDABAD, where they were interred near the Idgah. Sherkhan had four sons. Of these ZAFAR KHAN was the ablest and most enterprising. His services were appreciated at the Imperial Court and the title of SAFDARKHAN was bestowed upon him.

When in 1705 A. D. the Marathas invaded Gujarat, Safdarkhan led an army to oppose them.

In 1724 A. D. he died and was buried in his family grave-yard near Idgah at Ahmedabad. He was blessed with a long life, during which he served five Emperors of India, all of whom were pleased with his services.

In the Babi dynasty, he was the only one to earn for the family the respect and admiration of the proudest nobles of the time. He twice acted as the SUBEDAR of GUJARAT. He was so very peace-loving that he suppressed all mischief at the root. If any dissension arose among the nobles he always settled it amicably and induced the quarrelling parties to come to terms again.

Safdarkhan Babi had nine sons. All his sons and grandsons were appointed to high offices during his life time. Among his sons, SHER KHAN was the bravest and the most enterprising. The Jagirdar of RANPUR, who is now under the Nawab Saheb of Junagadh, is a descendant of his.

Among the sons of Safdarkhan, SALABAT KHAN and JAWANMARD KHAN became very famous. The descendants of the former won the Kingdoms of JUNAGADH and WADASINOR, while those of the latter that of RADHANPUR.

In 1715 A. D. when disorder prevailed in GOHILWAD, a general of Salabatkhan's calibre was ordered to restore peace and order.

In 1728 A. D. the Foujdar of Junagadh died and Salabatkhan's son BAHADUR KHAN was appointed Nawab at JUNAGADH in his father's place.

In 1730 A. D. Salabatkhan died at PATDI on his way to Viramgam from Ahmedabad. His remains were taken to Ahmedabad and interred in his family grave-yard.

He discharged his duties in Kathiawad with perfect loyalty to the Imperial Government. He had great influence with the people, so much so that his words carried more weight than those of the Suba himself. He was a lover of peace and during his regime the people were happy and prosperous. He was a man of great learning. The suburb of SALABATPUR named after him near AHMEDABAD on the other side of the river was founded by him. He also built a fort near WADASINOR, which he got as Jagir from Emperor AURANGZEB, and named it SALABAT NAGAR. He had three sons, named BAHADUR KHAN, DILER KHAN and SHERZAMAN KHAN.

CHAPTER II.

THE FIRST NAWAB SAHEB, BAHADURKHAN I.

KNOWN AS SHERKHAN

From 1748 A. D. to 1758 A. D.

Just as Salabatkhan was the bravest and most capable of his brothers in the family of Safdarkhan so was BAHADURKHAN in that of Salabatkhan.

In 1719 A. D. Bahadurkhan was appointed Foujdar (Governor) of the neighbouring places of AHMEDABAD City. He discharged his duties creditably.

Bahadurkhan performed a long series of important deeds in Gujarat, in discharge of his duties to the Empire. In consequence of this he was exalted to the title of SHERKHAN by the Imperial Government in 1721 A. D.

In 1728 A. D. he was appointed Nayab Foujdar of JUNAGADH in his father's place.

In 1732 A. D. he was promoted to the post of Foujdar of BARODA. In appreciation of his excellent services he was created NAWAB by the Emperor Mohomed Shah. Subsequently in 1734 A. D. he was appointed the Foujdar of VIRAMGAM.

At this time the affairs at JUNAGADH being in a state of confusion, the Government dues were not paid regularly and the Marathas devastated the country. Thereupon in 1738 A. D. Sher Khan was sent there as Nawab under Imperial Orders. The Nawab spent five years in settling the Kathiawad territory and having subdued rebels brought peace in the country. Afterwards he went to AHMEDABAD and other places for the purpose of helping the Subas. When Sher Khan saw that Gujarat was going from bad to worse and was on the verge of falling into the hands of the Marathas, he did not think it advisable to tarry there longer. Therefore handing over WADASINOR to his son SARDAR MOHOMED KHAN, he went to JUNAGADH in the year 1748 A. D. During his absence from Junagadh the administration was conducted by his wives LADLI BEGAM and AMINA BEGAM.

Sher Khan died in 1758 and was buried in the Mausoleum opposite the CHITAKHAN Mosque in Junagadh.

Sher Khan served for 30 years at various places in Gujarat. That time was very critical, because many battles were then fought between the Mussalmans and Marathas, and every officer was aiming at the highest authority. In the beginning Sher Khan obtained the FOUJDARI and JAGIR of JUNAGADH because of his having rendered valuable services to the Emperor. At Junagadh he established order, the country was prosperous and the subjects happy. Through his own efforts he subjugated all the states in KATHIAWAD and exacted a tribute from them since called "ZORTALABI" which continues to this day. He was religious, just and magnanimous. He gave Jagirs to Saiyeds, learned men and others deserving them. He was so impartial that he also bestowed Jagirs upon Hindus. He accorded permission to a Kathi named WALA WIRA to construct a fort and assigned him the Paragna of Jetpur as Jagir on condition of remaining faithful. It still continues in his family. He gave KOYLI as Jagir to the Mahant of Koyli. Upon his brothers SHERZAMANKHAN and DILERKHAN he bestowed the Taluka of BANTWA as Jagir. It is now divided into three smaller Talukas. Of these two BANTWA and SARDARGADH (or Ghidar) are in the possession of the descendants of SHERZAMANKHAN. Each consists of twelve villages. But BANTWA is now subdivided into many small parts. The third, MANAVADAR, is in the hands of the descendants of DILERKHAN. It consists of 24 villages.

Nawab Sher Khan had two Begams (wives). One of them was AMINA BEGAM, daughter of Mohomedkhan, Jagirdar of Kaira and the other LADLI BEGAM, daughter of Sardar Mohomedkhan Ghorī, Foujdar of Baroda.

The Nawab Saheb had four sons. The eldest of these, MAHABATKHAN, became the Nawab Saheb of JUNAGADH and the second, SARDAR MOHOMEDKHAN, Nawab of WADASINOR.

CHAPTER III.

THE SECOND NAWAB SAHEB MAHABATKHAN I.

1758 to 1774 A. D.

Nawab Saheb Sherkhan was succeeded by Nawab Saheb Mahabatkhan.

VERAVAL, PATAN and other Paragnas formed part of the Jagir of NEMATKHAN LODI under Imperial Orders. The inhabitants of Patan frequently raised their heads but Nematkhan being powerful quelled the petty disturbances. After his death the Nawab Saheb's aunt (father's sister) SULTAN BIBI brought Veraval into her possession, and later on in the year 1762 A. D. SHAIKHMIYAN KAZI, of MANGROL, wrested it from her. While he was extending his power in that region, the Nawab Saheb, for political reasons, thought it proper to amalgamate Veraval into his own possessions. Consequently in 1764 A. D. he led his armies against Veraval and obtained possession of it.

At a distance of 31 miles from BHAVNAGAR is situated a beautiful place called TALAJA. It was under the possession of a Koli tribe, named Baria. They were plunderers by profession. They used to plunder the ships of the Englishmen also. They had acquired so much power that even the Raja of Bhavnagar was afraid to oppose them. At last when the Raja was tired of their depredations, he sought the help of the Nawab Saheb. Thereupon the latter sent an army by which the Kolies were subdued. They gave a large sum as compensation and agreed to practise plunder no more.

As Shaikhmiyan of MANGROL frequently failed in his allegiance to the Nawab Saheb, an army was dispatched against Mangrol in 1770. The town was closely besieged and bombardment commenced. The Shaikh realising his danger agreed to cede half of his Paragna.

The Miyanas of MALIYA under Morbi and Waghers became so turbulent as to harass the armies of the GAEKWAD and JAM. As they were under the suzerainty of the Nawab Saheb, he drew his armies for their subjugation, and defeated them. They paid a heavy fine and agreed to owe their allegiance to Nawab Saheb in future.

THAKOR KUMBHAJI JADEJA of GONDAL was found to extend his wealth and influence to such an extent that his men had the audacity to attack the Nawab Saheb's army stationed for guarding the frontier. Therefore the Nawab Saheb sent an army to punish him. But he apologized and paid a heavy fine. This happened in 1770 A. D.

In 1773 A. D. the people of the neighbourhood of SUTRAPADA complained to the Nawab Saheb that the Zamindar CHAND PATNI oppressed the poor and plundered the inhabitants of the neighbouring villages. Thereupon an army was sent against him, which wrested Sutrapada from him and he fled to Gorakhamadhi.

In 1774 A. D. The THAKOR of WANKANER implored help from the Nawab Saheb, against the depredations of the Kathis under his rule. Thereupon an army was sent there, which established order.

In 1774 A. D. the Nawab Saheb died at the age of 40 and was buried in the Makbara (Grave-Yard) of his ancestors.

The Nawab Saheb was very brave and religious. He suppressed the depredations of the Kolies, Mianas and Waghers by bringing them under subjection. He was so good that he often rendered help to the neighbouring States of BHAVNAGAR, JAMNAGAR, GONDAL and others in KATHIAWAR.

CHAPTER IV.

THE THIRD NAWAB SAHEB HAMIDKHAN I.

1774 A. D. to 1811 A. D.

Nawab Saheb Mahabatkhan was succeeded by Nawab Saheb Hamidkhan in 1774 A. D. He was then 8 years old. In this year his paternal uncles Mukhtarkhan and Adilkhan the Jagirdars of Bantva took possession of the fort of Vanthali. An army was sent from Junagadh against them, whereupon they returned to Bantva disappointed.

In the time of Nawab Mahabatkhan UNA and DELVADA were under the suzerainty of the Nawab Saheb. A Thana was established there and it paid tribute, but in 1781 A. D. both were annexed to the Nawab Saheb Hamidkhan's territory.

The most noteworthy event in the time of this Nawab Saheb is the battle of PANCHPIPLA. Such a great battle was never fought in the annals of Junagadh before or since. The cause of it was that the neighbouring States had to pay ZORTALABI to Junagadh which was very distasteful to them. Therefore they secretly planned means to rid themselves of it. Again Meraman Khawas, Diwan of Jamnagar and the Thakor of Gondal had a personal grudge against Amarji, the then Diwan of Junagadh, who was very faithful and trustworthy servant of the Nawab Saheb. Therefore Jamnagar, Gondal and Porbandar formed an alliance and calling in the aid of the Gaekwad encamped their forces on the bank of the Bhadar in 1782 A. D. Though a minor, the Nawab Saheb was very brave. The Jagirdars of Bantva and Ranpur, Shaikhman Kazi of Mangrol, the Baloch of Khadia, the Kathi Darbars of Jetpur and others joined the standard of Nawab Saheb. In those days there were 72 flags of the Arab contingent bands. The Nawab Saheb himself expressed his desire of going to the front but all the Sardars protested that it was not advisable for him to go out of Junagadh, so long as even one out of them was alive. Thus Nawab Saheb had to stay in the Capital. But the army went in opposition. When the enemies saw the fury of Nawab Saheb's army, they crossed the Bhadar and took to flight. But Nawab Saheb's army pursued them till both the armies met at Panchpipla, where a great battle was fought. At last Nawab Saheb's army was victorious and the enemies were dispersed. After this the army returned to Junagadh with great eclat. The good Nawab Saheb forgave the enemies. But at last internal dissensions arose among them regarding the expenses of the campaign. It was however finally decided that the whole expenses were to be divided into ten parts out of which Jamnagar should bear five, Porbandar four and Gondal one. In spite of this amicable settlement a good deal of ill feeling existed long afterwards between Jamnagar and Porbandar.

Mokaji, Zamindar of Chorwad, having had no money to give the arrears of pay to his army, the Rana of Porbandar on the pretext of being related to him paid up the money for him and took possession of Chorwad in 1788 A. D. Later on the Rana went to Veraval in the night and having scaled the fort took it into his possession. When the Nawab Saheb came to know of this event he himself marched with an army. The Thakor of Gondal also led his army in aid of Nawab Saheb. At first he laid siege to Chorwad and sacked it. Those followers of the Rana who were captured at Chorwad were, however released by Nawab Saheb. Chorwad was amalgamated with Nawab Saheb's territory. After this he captured Veraval also and then proceeded to Porbandar to punish the Rana, and besieged the fort of KANDORANA. The Rana submitted and gave a heavy fine and agreed never more to molest Nawab Saheb's territory. Thus the fault of the Rana was forgiven. Nawab Saheb returned to Junagadh in great splendour and was received with great ovation by the people.

In 1796 A. D. Fateh Mohomed, the Dewan of Cutch attacked the territory of the Jam Saheb, who sought the aid of the Nawab Saheb. Thereupon he himself marched in person with an army. But peace being concluded between the two belligerents, he directly marched against the Raja of Bhavnagar, who for some time had been doing mischief in the Nawab Saheb's territory. A hard battle was fought with the Raja between Waral and Dhasa, in which the Nawab Saheb was victorious. At last the Raja apologized and gave a fine of Rs. 115000.

In 1811 A. D. Nawab Saheb died at the age of 45 years and was buried in the ancestral grave-yard near Chitakhan mosque. He was of polished manners, active, gentle, intelligent and of an imposing appearance. He was religious and observed fasts in the month of Ramzan. He loved to read the holy Quran. He was so brave that he himself took part in the battlefield and punished mischievous people. He was peace-loving and tolerant. He helped the Thakors of Morbi, Porbandar, Gondal, Bhavnagar and Sayla in their calamities.

CHAPTER V.

FOURTH NAWAB SAHEB BAHADURKHAN II.

1811 A. D. to 1840 A. D.

Nawab Saheb Hamidkhan was succeeded in 1811 A. D. by his son Bahadurkhan who was 16 years old. In 1812 A. D. while returning from the invasion of Jamnagar, the Gaekwad encamped at Lalvadh eight miles from Junagadh and demanded a Nazrana from the Nawab Saheb for his installation on the Gadi. Upon this the latter made preparations for an encounter. In the meantime the Nawab Saheb's Diwan Raghunathji having gone to the camp of the Gaekwad promised the grant of a few villages, upon which he went away. But the Nawab Saheb never intended to part with the villages. Therefore Raghunathji resigned his post. He was succeeded by Jamadar Omar Mukasam as Diwan. During his regime a pressure was brought to bear on the Diwan who ceded the Parganas of AMRELI and KODINAR without the sanction of the Nawab Saheb.

In 1815 A. D. Diwan Omar Mukasam began to be insubordinate. He was a big nobleman. He acted too much against Nawab Saheb, who thereupon called in the aid of his particular and trusted friend COL. BALLANTYNE, the Resident of Baroda. He was accompanied by the Commanding Officer of the British Army in Kathiawar. These officers gave to Omar Mukasam two villages, viz. Timdi and Pipalia and 150000 Koris, upon which the whole affair was calmed.

In 1820 A. D. the Gaekwad asked the British Government to collect for him his dues from the States in Kathiawar on account of tribute. This established British power in Kathiawar, which goes by the name of AGENCY. The officers who were appointed for this purpose were then styled POLITICAL AGENTS. Capt. Barnwell was the 1st Political Agent.

In 1821 A. D. Nawab Saheb asked the British Government to collect for him the ZORTALABI in Kathiawar and deduct one fourth out of the collections on account of expenses.

In 1830 A. D. His Excellency the Governor of Bombay visited Rajkot. The Nawab Saheb went there and both had a cordial meeting.

In 1831 A. D. during his official tour through the State the Nawab Saheb called at Koyli. The head of the Math accorded a hearty welcome to His Highness, upon which an elephant, a palanquin, a torch and two villages—Bodka and Ranpur—were bestowed upon him.

In 1837 A. D. His Highness abolished the practice of Sati from the State.

In 1840 A. D. the Nawab Saheb died at the age of 45 and was buried in the ancestral grave-yard, near Chitakhan Mosque.

The Agency having been established in Kathiawar there was peace in the state.

CHAPTER VI.

FIFTH NAWAB SAHEB HAMIDKHAN II.

1840 A. D. to 1851 A. D.

On the death of the Nawab Saheb Bahadurkhan, a dispute arose among his four sons about the succession. But Hamidkhan being the eldest and having been appointed heir-apparent during his father's life-time succeeded to the Gadi in 1840 A. D. The claims of the others, except Mahabatkhan, not being tenable, they accepted some villages as Jagir. But Mahabatkhan persisted in his claims. He claimed to be descended from a Babi mother. But this time he had to be disappointed.

As the Nawab Saheb was 12 years old the Administration was in the hands of his mother Dadibu Saheba of Kutiana. But really the power was wielded by Jhabar Sheth Bhatia and Habibkhan Sherwani of Kutiana. The latter's brother Nathukhan exercised great influence in all the affairs. In household affairs he played the master.

In 1841 A. D. the marriage of the Nawab Saheb with the daughter of the Talukdar of Manawadar and with that of the Nawab Saheb of Wadasinor was celebrated with great pomp and splendour. An expense of seven lakhs of Rupees was incurred.

The Kathis Harsuvala and Bhujia began to plunder and ruin the State. To subdue them the Nawab Saheb sent troops. Bhujia was captured and Harsuvala's apology was accepted. Thus the subjects got immunity from plunder and rapin.

Mahabatkhan having still clung to his claims in 1842 the Nawab Saheb placed his friends under surveillance. Lalbh and his wife Chahatboo were the chief confidants of Maji Saheba, mother of Mahabatkhan. Both these loved Mahabatkhan from his infancy. Therefore this time they also shared the hard treatment. But they spared neither life nor wealth. Shail Bahauddin began to go to Mahabatkhan with his paternal aunt Chahatboo. Both being of equal age such a strong friendship grew up between the two that they lived together night and day. Both were circumcised together. Gradually by his ability and goodness, Shaikh Bahauddin became a constant companion of Mahabatkhan. Who could then divine the inscrutable will of God that later on Mahabatkhan would be the Nawab Saheb and Shaikh Bahauddin in the capacity of his Vazir would contribute so much to the happiness and prosperity of the subjects?

Mahabatkhan was betrothed to a daughter of the Nawab Saheb of Radhanpur, so Mahabatkhan went to Radhanpur and stayed there till the demise of the Nawab Saheb Hamidkhan.

Nawab Saheb being a minor the administration was conducted by the people of his mother's confidence. This caused a considerable deficit in the state treasury. The Nawab Saheb was duly apprised of the evil doings of these enemies of the state. He was himself very intelligent. Therefore he made up his mind to banish the evil-doers in consultation with the Political Agent. When Nathukhan and Jhabarsheth came to know of this, they opposed the Nawab Saheb but were captured. They were however released later on.

In 1851 A. D. Nawab Saheb visited the shrine of DAVALSHA at Amran under Jamnagar State accompanied by a large retinue. This visit was a source of great fame in Kathiawar. During this excursion the Jam Saheb of Jamnagar and the Thakor Saheb of Morbi treated Nawab Saheb with great hospitality.

Nawab Saheb having ruled for 11 years died childless in 1851 A. D. at the age of 23 and was interred in the ancestral grave-yard, near the Chitakhan Mosque.

Nawab Saheb conducted the administration ably and dealt impartial justice. He personally heard cases and gave decisions. The cavalcade was stopped to give a hearing to complaints of the poor. Once the noble men of the state made a petition that it was not proper to stop the royal cavalcade to listen to the complaints of the low. His Highness said that it was the duty of the ruler to hear the complaints of his subjects, otherwise he would be held responsible before God on the day of judgment.

Nawab Saheb was handsome, of imposing appearance and of a sparing constitution. He knew Persian, Urdu and Gujarati well. He loved to play chess and fly kites. He also loved shooting and was an excellent marksman.

CHAPTER VII.

SIXTH NAWAB SAHEB SIR MAHABATKHAN II.

From 1851 A. D. to 1882 A. D.

When Nawab Hamidkhan died, Mahabatkhan was at Radhanpur. On the day Hamidkhan died, Mahabatkhan saw a dream that his brother the Nawab had died. This dream was related to his constant companion Lalbhai, who was then with him. As the deceased Nawab Saheb had no offspring, COL. LANG, the Political Agent of Kathiawar, was called and requested to stay at Junagadh during his illness. As the next heir to the Gadi was Mahabatkhan, his mother Maji Saheba who was then at Junagadh sent messengers to fetch him. Among those despatched for the purpose were Husen Sawar and Virji Luhana. The latter was then a dooli-bearer, but afterwards he attained to great power. With his help his brother Keshavji also attained to great influence. Immediately on the receipt of the message Mahabatkhan came to Junagadh and ascended the Gadi. He was then 14 years old. Therefore a Council of Regency was appointed, with the advice of the Political Agent, COL. Lang. The council consisted of Mohomedkhan, Talukdar of Bantva, Anantji Diwan and Habibkhan Sherwani. Jamadar Saleh Hindi was appointed to superintend the deceased Hamidkhan's palaces. Although the State was administered under the above arrangement, the household affairs were governed independently by the mother of the Nawab Saheb. The Nawab Saheb now appreciated the past services of his old attendants and Shaikh Bahauddin was appointed Chief of the personal Risala (Bodyguards.)

The Nawab Saheb was a strong advocate of education. In 1852 he established an efficient Gujarati school.

The practice of giving villages on contract then prevalent was the source of great hardship to the poor Ryot. The Nawab Saheb abolished this system and appointed Vahivatdars in the place of contractors.

The Nawab Saheb was married with great pomp to Ladli Begum Saheba sister of Shaikh Bahauddin in 1753 A. D.

Previous to his coming to the Gadi, the Nawab Saheb was married to Kamalbakhte Saheba, the daughter of the Nawab Saheb of Radhanpur.

As a result of the anxious desire of the Nawab Saheb to spread education among the masses, he started an Urdu school and a Sanskrit Pathshala in 1854 A. D.

In 1856 A. D. Ladli Begum Saheba bore to him a son named BAHADURKHAN, but from his infancy to the time he attained the throne, he was called by the name of Bapumian.

In 1858 A. D. the Nawab Saheb had another son named RASULKHAN by his other Begum Nurbibi Saheba.

In 1858 when the Nawab Saheb attained his majority, the Council of Regency was terminated and the full authority of the state was handed over to him. Anantji, who was Diwan previously and a member of the Council was appointed as Diwan. After sometime Syed Ahmed Edroos was appointed Co-Diwan. Subsequently a native of Cutch named Dungersi Khatri was appointed Diwan in 1860 A. D. During 14 months of his administration only for four months, matters went on pretty well. Afterwards he was removed for not being able to manage affairs satisfactorily. He was succeeded in 1861 A. D. by Nagar named Gokalji Jhala. At that time sole power was in reality in the hands of Keshavji Luhana. Keshavji's brother Virji was Khangi Karbhari. Both these brothers conducted the administration according to their will. Their relatives who were formerly dooly-bearers were placed in charge of big Talukas (Mahals.) They allowed in-adequate allowance even to the Nawab Saheb. They were devising schemes to disturb the relations between the Agency and the State. These Luhana brothers were ignorant of the method of keeping the account. Therefore their accounts were kept irregularly. They became so autocratic that they did not care even for the Agency. They had their own way in all matters. They were in secret alliance with the Waghers who made depredations in the State in those times. These doings of theirs displeased the Nawab Saheb. The Political Agent was also indignant. Therefore Keshavji was summoned to Rajkot and kept under surveillance, and was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment for having assisted the Wagher decoits. Virji committed suicide while in confinement at Junagadh Uperkote by throwing himself down from a window and thus escaped trial. The State and Agency authorities were so disgusted at this state of things that atlast the Nawab Saheb determined to assume the reins of Government himself. Therefore arrangements were made with the help of the Agency to take away all the power from the Nawab Saheb's mother. As soon as the Nawab Saheb assumed the powers he dismissed all the Lhanas from the State service. At this time the Political Agent was also at Junagadh.

Shaikh Bahauddin rendered useful help to the Nawab Saheb in this matter, upon which the Nawab Saheb was pleased to confer upon him the office of the VAZIR and the village of AGATARAI as a Jagir in the year 1862. And later on in 1868 A. D. in appreciating of faithful and responsible services, he was given Bhiyal as a Jagir.

The Waghers who were a turbulent race and lived upon plunder were the inhabitants of Dwarka under Gaekwad territory. In the year 1858 they rose in rebellion and created a disturbance in the whole of Kathiawar. Two or three years after they took refuge in the Gir forest. Some British officers with the Vazir and Saleh Hindi captured the Waghers alive. Subsequently this disturbance was quelled, in which His Highness rendered valuable help to the British Government. Shortly after this the Mianas declared hostilities against Junagadh but the State and the Agency presented such a bold front that they were compelled to surrender.

If he noticed a stranger in the town, he made inquiries about his name and whereabouts. If he found him worthy, he would help him. He was very bold. He confronted an infuriated elephant with only a light cane. He kept a tiger cub near his bed. When it grew up and made mischief it was quieted and made to couch by the Nawab Saheb only by the flourish of a cane. The nobles were in great concern about the safety of the Nawab Saheb from the wild nature of the animal. Therefore they frequently reasoned with him to keep it away from him. To this he replied that it was his pet and would not harm him. One day it grew savage and uncontrollable and upon urgent entreaties of the nobles was put into a cage.

In 1883 A. D. Diwan Saleh Hindi resigned his post. He had resigned once before also. But he was not relieved. This time, however owing to his advanced age and indifferent health the Nawab Saheb accepted the resignation. The Diwan was brave. The State and the British Government had already appreciated his faithful services. After his retirement the people, both Hindu and Mohomedan of Junagadh and the Mahals gave him addresses. He was succeeded by Desai Haridas Vihari-das of Nadiad as Diwan; while Purshotamrai Sunderji Jhala was appointed Nayab Diwan. H. E. the Governor of Bombay visited Junagadh and laid the foundation of the MAHABAT MADRESSA.

His Highness the Nawab Saheb contributed one lakh of Rupees towards the Art and Industrial Exhibition of Bombay.

In 1885 A. D. a building for the Central Jail was erected. An office called the WALI DAFTAR was created for administering the estates of Jagirdar minors; for it was found that in many cases such Jagirs were not managed in the interests of the minors during their minority by their relatives.

There is a village named Inaj under Patan. This was given as Inam to a Makrani Jamadar a century ago. In the previous year this Jamadar's daughter's descendants named Ali Mohomed and Vali Mohomed ousted the son's descendants from the estate. They also made default in the payment of state dues. At first mild measures were taken against them, which served only to make them more mischievous. Therefore a police party with two pieces of cannon was sent against them. Major Scott, the Political Officer of Sorath accompanied this party. Efforts were made to settle matters with mildness. But they continued to be insubordinate. Hence they were ordered to be seized. The Makranis offered resistance in which some men of both the sides were injured. Ali Mohomed and his son were killed. Vali Mohomed with his nephew Abdur Rehman and others were captured. Kadarbakhsh, who goes by the name of Kadar escaped with some men and commenced depredations. Advertisements were published for their surrender. Some were killed and others were taken alive. Kadarbakhsh fled to Karachi, where upon being challenged by a policeman, he attacked and killed him. For this offence of murder he was captured by police and tried and sentenced to death. The widow of the policeman who was killed by Kadarbakhsh got an annual pension of Rupees 60 for life from the state. The captor of Kadarbakhsh also was rewarded handsomely. This disturbance took two years to be quelled.

In 1886 A. D. H. E. the Governor of Bombay paid a visit to Junagadh and opened the MAHABAT MADRESSA. This institution was built by Vazir Saheb at the expense of Rs. 80,000 in memory of his master late Nawab Saheb Sir Mahabatkhan II for the free education of the backward community of Muslims.

Moreover to perpetuate the memory of the same Nawab Saheb, Vazir Saheb liberally placed the sum of Rs. 30,000 at the disposal of the Bombay University for the foundation of a scholarship, known as MAHABAT FELLOWSHIP to be awarded to the Mohomedan Graduates of the University. The proposal was made in 1887 A. D. and finally accepted by the Government and University in 1889 A. D.

In commemoration of his visit, a gate was put up in the city wall opposite to the Railway Station and was named the REAY GATE, but it is now commonly known as the Station Gate. A large clock has been fitted up at the top of the gate and upon the arch of the gate a marble bust of Lord Reay has been set.

In 1889 A. D. construction of stone steps had begun in order to facilitate ascent upon the Girnar by collecting money by means of a lottery. In the same year, stone steps were also begun to be constructed for the Datar (upper part.)

At first His Royal Highness went to Sasan for lion-shooting. Then he came to Junagadh. This visit was marked by brilliant illuminations. In commemoration of this visit the foundation of a Leper Asylum was laid by the Prince at the foot of the Datar Chhilla and the building has been named the Prince Victor Leper Asylum after him.

A troop of trained horsemen called the IMPERIAL LANCERS was organised this year for loyal aid to the Imperial Government whenever necessary.

In recognition of the Nawab Saheb's munificent gifts to the public and introduction of reforms in the State he was decorated with the insignia of G. C. I. E. by the Imperial Government. The ceremony of investiture was performed at Rajkot, by H. E. the Governor before an imposing gathering of the Chiefs of Kathiawad. This auspicious occasion was celebrated at Junagadh by the Nawab Saheb by holding a Darbar at which remission of various taxes was announced. A noteworthy feature of the Darbar was that Khairatali Khan, the Nawab Saheb's Tutor, was received on arrival by the Nawab Saheb by standing up and the whole assembly followed suit.

As the Nawab Saheb had no issue he very much loved his brother Rasulkhan's son Sherzamankhan. Therefore he was sent to be educated at the Rajkot Rajkumar College in 1891 A. D.

In this year on the termination of 30 years' service, Vazir Saheb tendered his resignation. But the State being in need of a man of his experience and ability it was not accepted and he was again saddled with the heavy responsibilities of the State. This very year saw the opening of a Veterinary Hospital and a Paddock for producing an excellent breed of horses.

In this year the Nawab Saheb died at an early age of 36 years, and was interred in the Mahabat Makbara.

During this regime an impetus was given to the onward progress of education in the State. Railways were constructed which facilitated the extension of trade and agriculture. Large sums were spent on works of public utility. Railways cost 60 lakhs and other buildings 25. More than eight lakhs were given away for public works at Rajkot, Ahmedabad and Bombay.

His Highness married five wives in all but none bore him any issue.

Shahpur, a place at a distance of 8 miles from Junagadh was a favourite resort of the Nawab Saheb. There a palace and garden were made. The inhabitants of the place were also the recipients of considerable princely favours.

H. H. was very handsome and loved shooting. He had also a passion for flying kites, wrestling and elephant fighting. He was a skilled horseman and a liberal minded ruler.

From 31st March 1920 A. D.

The present Nawab Saheb is His Highness Sir Mahabat Khan III G. C. I. E., K. C. S. I. who is ninth in succession and seventh in descent from His Highness the Nawab Saheb Bahadur Khan I. the founder of the Babi Family of Junagadh in 1748 A. D. Nawab Saheb was born on 2nd August 1900, and succeeded to the Gadi on 22nd January 1911 A. D. but His Highness being then a minor the State was placed under the British Administration. He visited England in 1913-14 and received his education at the Mayo College, Ajmere.

The investiture of the Nawab Saheb had been eagerly looked forward by five lakhs of His Highness' subjects and had excited attention far and wide. The auspicious ceremony was performed on Wednesday 31st March 1920 A. D. by Mr. E. Maconochie, C. S. I., I. C. S., Agent to the Governor in Kathiawar. The imposing investiture Darbar was held at 9 a. m. in the Hall of the Bahauddin College. On this auspicious occasion, deputations came from most of the States in Kathiawar and Gujerat. People from outside had gathered in the Junagadh town in unusually in large numbers.

His Highness the Nawab Saheb as the Ruler of the Premier State in Kathiawar, ranks first among the Princes and Chiefs of Kathiawar enjoying plenary powers and enjoys a personal salute of 15 guns, the permanent salute being 15 guns within, and 13 guns outside, Junagadh territory.

The Junagadh State can also well claim to be one of the leading Mohomedan States in India, for among the 18 Mohomedan Salute States in India, the Junagadh State ranks fifth in area, fourth in population, but ranks second in annual income.

Nawab Saheb is the Supreme and final authority in the State, and the general administration is conducted under his direction, though a large measure of authority has been entrusted to Diwan Saheb and other officers.

Soon after the assumption of full powers by the Nawab Saheb, signs were perceptible which heralded the dawn of a new and bright era. Nawab Saheb was pleased to make clear his intentions to train the people of the State in the art of Government by giving them opportunities to manage their local affairs.

The Farman opens with the following memorable words :—

"The welfare and prosperity of the very large proportion of my people who are engaged in Agriculture is very near to my heart. The Khedut are the fountain of all the wealth of Junagadh. Motives of self-interest alone would compel me to regard them as of prime importance in the State and in any future development of its political institution."

Nawab Saheb desired to reform the then existing Municipality of the City and to entrust the Municipal Government to a body of nine members, nominated by the State, representing the different communities and an official President. The Bahadurkhanji Library was placed under the control of the Municipality which has been furnished with a commodious Council Hall. The opening ceremony took place on the 15th August at His Highness' hands in a Darbar in a Shamiana erected before the Bahadurkhanji Library.

The advantage was taken of the occasion by the subjects of the Junagadh State to present a public address in a fine casket to Nawab Saheb by way of an expression of their respectful and loyal greetings on the assumption of His Highness of the Government of the State with full powers. At the time of Investiture of His Highness, owing to indifferent health, it was decided to postpone the announcement of certain boons which are generally supposed to be connected with an Investiture ceremony. *The total REVENUE of the State for the year 1933-34 A. D. was Rs. 87,66,913 exclusive of the alienated revenue amounting to Rs. 9,57,360 and Mangrol Revenue of about 3 lakhs; while the expenditure amounted to Rs. 74,34,649.

The total population of the State according to the census of 1931 A. D. was 5,45,152 of which 4,33,125 were Hindus, 1,04,964 Mohomedans, 6,853 Jains, 150 Christians, 48 Parsees while 12 were of other castes.

The total sum expended towards the VERAVAL HARBOUR Improvement came to Rs. 46,40,523 upto 31st October 1934 A. D.

Next to agricultural land another valuable asset of the State consists of its two forests the Gir and the Girnar forests comprising 565.65 Sq. miles i. e. 17.2 Percent of its total area. The importance of the forests to the physical and economical welfare of the State has long been realised by the State, which has laid down a definite and far-sighted forest policy. The State is already deriving a net annual revenue of nearly Rs. 1,00,000. The Match factory at Veraval too is a welcome addition to the existing forest industries of the State during the regime of the present Nawab Saheb.

In order to finance the merchants of the State and to encourage the banking habit among the people, a STATE BANK have been recently opened at Veraval and its branch at Junagadh.

His Highness the Nawab Saheb takes a very keen interest in cattle breeding and the aim of the Willingdon Farm after the name of the present Viceroy H. E. Lord Willingdon, is to improve the famous breed of Gir cattle. H. E. has taken a great interest in the foundation of the Farm. It continues to flourish under the direct supervision of the Private Secretary to His Highness, who is also the Revenue Member.

The State owns and works the JUNAGADH STATE RAILWAY, of which 209.09 miles were open to traffic in 1935 A. D. It also owns a six anna share of the Jetalsar-Rajkot Railway, (46.21 miles,) which is worked on behalf of its proprietors, by the Gondal Railway. 2 Passenger Rail Motors are also maintained by the Junagadh Railway.

His Highness the Nawab Saheb commenced soon after His Highness' accession to the throne to evince the same solicitude and sympathetic concern in the promotion of public weal as were evinced in the past by His Highness' illustrious ancestors.

The welfare and prosperity of the agriculturist class has been so near His Highness' heart that His Highness had often issued special instructions to the Revenue Administration for helping the agricultural population against adverse times and circumstances and saving them from the clutches of usurious money lenders. In order to ensure special protection to the agricultural population as a whole, and to afford proper opportunities of the expression of their wants and aspirations, His Highness has been pleased to abolish the existing system of Village Patel and to substitute in lieu thereof Village Panch who have been given the right of direct appeal to His Highness in cases where they found it difficult to obtain redress of their grievances.

The extension of cultivation and irrigation has added to the resources of the agricultural classes.

His Highness also completely reformed the Municipality. The new members looked into the needs of the people and did a good deal towards the improvement of sanitation and furtherance of the cause of the public in general.

The people are not addicted to drink and indulgence in spirituous liquors is discouraged at the sacrifice of excise revenue.

Nawab Saheb is, however, not slow in giving a strong impetus to education. In the memorable Farman of Village Panchayat, Nawab Saheb directed the Educational authorities to consider the views of the Village Panch regarding the establishment of schools in the State. However, His Highness the Nawab Saheb, not resting content with that direction,

+ Also appointed as the Military Secretary to H. H. the Nawab Saheb.

was graciously pleased on the occasion of performing the opening ceremony of the Council Hall of the City Municipality, on the 15th August 1920 to announce the following two boons among others:—

“Primary education shall be free throughout the State.”

“Secondary education upto and including standard V shall be free throughout the State.”

Nawab Saheb did not also fail to notice the educational backwardness of the children of the Amirs of the State. With a view to provide for them the benefits of liberal education, including religious instruction on the lines of the public schools in England, His Highness was pleased to establish in 1922, an institution called the Mahabatkhan Madresa-tul-Mualla. His Excellency the Governor of Bombay congratulated His Highness' wisdom and foresight in this matter. It is gratifying to note that the Amirs of the State have shown a lively sense of appreciation for the generosity of Nawab Saheb.

Originally only the sons of Amirs were admitted in this institution, but now the sons of respectable families of Musalmans are also admitted as paying boarders. The sons of Amirs continue as free Boarders.

With a view to assist poor deserving students of the State in prosecuting their studies in local institutions and higher studies in outside institutions, it has been recently directed by His Highness the Nawab Saheb to increase the number of scholarships granted annually.

The Mahabat Madresa at Junagadh and the Dilavarkhan School at Veraval are raised to the status of the High Schools.

With a view to cultivate public opinion and to secure public co-operation in the educational matters of general importance, an Educational Advisory Board has been formed. It consists of Chief Educational Officer as Chairman with 10 members.

H. H. the Nawab Saheb deputed his Diwan Amir Shaikh Mohomedbhai Saheb to preside at the 13th Session of Bombay Presidency Muslim Educational Conference at Poona in 1927 A. D. and at the 2nd Session of the Gujarat Kathiawad Muslim Educational Conference at Rajkot in 1928 A. D. and to open the proceedings of the 1st Session of the Gujarat Kathiawad Muslim Educational Conference at Ahmedabad in 1927 A. D.

These conferences most respectfully tendered their sincerest thanks to H. H. the Nawab Saheb for the princely assistance rendered by His Highness to the cause of Muslim education.

Shaikh Mohomedbhai Saheb was also deputed to perform the opening ceremonies of the Sultan Ahmed Yatimkhana at Ahmedabad and the Islam Gymkhana Club Building at Broach.

Kazi Ahmedmian Akhtar and Prof. N. B. Purohit of the Bahauddin College were deputed to attend the All-India Oriental Conference at Mysore during the Christmas of 1935 A. D.

The raising of the proportion of the pension grant from $\frac{1}{3}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ and of the age limit for super annuation from 55 to 60 years, in case of all civil servants of the State, has greatly encouraged them in the faithful discharge of their official duties. The increase in Parwarshi grant is a positive proof of His Highness' generosity and personal sympathy for the poor and the afflicted.

H. H. the Nawab Saheb's usual generosity extended to the grant of Compassionate allowance to the distressed widows of State servants based not merely on the length but also on the quality of the service rendered and the needs of the family.

For the poorer class of His Highness' subjects, cooked rations are daily distributed at the State Langarkhana which is availed of by about 400 poor Mohomedans. Besides this, Katcha petias are also ordered for those who are unable to accept Langar food.

H. H. the Nawab Saheb has thus in spite of the shortness of His Highness' regime already endeared himself to the people by sympathy to the poor and the afflicted no less than by his just and liberal administration.

For the benefit of public institutions both within and outside the State limits, H. H. the Nawab Saheb has always been found in making munificent donations; such as (excluding those made during Minority) Rs. 1,50,000 Head quarter's Building for the Indian Red Cross Society at New Dehli; Rs. 1,00,000 Scholarships and help to the Students studying in England; Rs. 1,00,000 Raj Kumar College, Rajkot; Rs. 50,000 Indian Public School Society, Dehradun; Rs. 50,000 Muslim University, (for Technical Education), Aligarh; Rs. 22,000 Past Kumars' Association and Club, Rajkot; Rs. 16,700 Bombay Presidency Muslim Educational Conference at Poona; Rs. 15,000 H. E. Viceroy's Thanks-giving Fund; Rs. 12,500 each to Repairs to Randarda Lake Rajkot; Talukdari Grasia School, Wadhwan; Rs. 12,000 Race Club Rajkot for Rasulkhanji Cup and help; Rs. 11,000 Abdulla Davood Bavla Muslim Girls' Orphanage Bombay; Rs. 10,000 each to All India Victoria Memorial Hall, Calcutta; Pologround Poona; Rs. 9,500 The X-Ray Instalation &c at West Hospital at Rajkot; Rs. 8,010 British Union Club, London; Rs. 7,500 Gujrat Kathiawad Muslim Educational Conference held at Ahmedabad; Rs. 7,000 Mayne Memorial Fund, Rajkot; Rs. 6,000 each to Indian Boys' Scout Movement, Vanita Vishram at Bombay and Rajkot; Rs. 5,500 each to 2nd Session of the Gujrat Kathiawad Muslim Educational Conferenc held at Rajkot.
